Agincourt Community Services Association's (ACSA), positively writes in support of the Modern Batik Workshop Program lead by David Kibbuka. Since 2010, ACSA has had the pleasure of delivering community art based programs and services targeting at-risk youth. The partnership with David aligns with our agency's history and mandate which aims to provide multiple-services to empower children, youth, and newcomers among underserved communities.

The primary goal of this our Partnership with David is to engage at-risk racialized youth that are socially and economically disadvantaged, in arts achievement. By using Modern Batik we hope to provide and deliver visual art opportunities that target youth to express their feelings, examine their self-image, learn to control their impulsiveness, while increasing pro-social skills and their affinity for the arts, as one way to reduce emotional stresses and mitigate youth gang affiliation.

The results of this partnership are tremendous, we've engaged youth we normally wouldn't and David's commitment and passion for the work is remarkable.

Sincerely,

Lee Soda
